Madrid, October 28. The Duke d'Oſſuna, who lately returned from his Baniſhment at Segovia, is fallen under a freſh diſgrace, the King had ordered him to be carried Priſoner to the Caſtle of Montaurbes near Portugal, but on the 21th inſtant he got from his Guards juſt as they were going to begin their Journey, and retired into the Monaſtry of the Carmelites; whereupon an Edict was publiſhed the 25th, commanding him within three days after Publication thereof, to render himſelf a Priſoner, which if he do not, he will be proceeded againſt for his diſobedience and flight. From Cadiz of the 18th inſtant, they write, that three Ships were arrived there from Buenos Ayres, after having been out three years, and that they brought a Million of Money, 60000 Hides, and 12000 l. of red Wood. From Lisbon of the 19th. we hear that Monſieur de St. Romaine was arrived there in his ſecond Embaſſy from France: And that they were making great Preparations for the Coronation of the King Don Pedro the Second.

Genoua, November 3. The Thomas and Catherine is on departure for Tabarca to lade Corn for this place; and the Friends Adventure will Sail in few days for Spain. We have advice that the Spaniſh Gulleys are gone from Porto Spetia for Naples to Winter there; and it's believed their Armada will return very ſuddenly to Cadiz.

Stockholme, October 10. The 4th inſtant the Muſcovite Ambaſſadors had their publick Audience of the King of Sweden. The Burghers were in Arms, and made a Lane from the Ambaſſadors Lodgings to the Caſtle Gate, the Guards were drawn up in two Bodies within the Caſtle, and the Rycks Sale, or room of Audience was guarded with 100 Drabants or Yeomen of the Guard; about 12 a Clock the Proceeding began, Firſt rid the Ambaſſadors Gentleman of the Horſe, then followed 68 Soldiers of the Guards, who carried the Furrs, Silks, Bows and Arrows, &c. that were to be preſented to the King; after them came the Ambaſſadors Servants on Horſe-back in Habits of Silk, next the Coaches of the Senators, and then two of the Kings with ſix Horſes each, in which were the Chief of the Ambaſſadors Train; theſe were followed by the Secretary of the Embaſſy on Horſe-back, who carried the Czars Letter in a plate of Green Velvet, and then came anoth r of the Kings Coaches, in which were the Ambaſſadors, Monſieur Wrede and Monſieur Falkenberg, the Maſter of the Ceremonies, and two Interpreters. Being come into the Court, they were met at the foot of the Stairs by the Sieur Rosenham the Kings Marſhall, and at the top of them by Lieutenant-General Bielke and Monſieur Guldenſterne, who led them into the Room of Audience, at the upper end whereof was placed the Kings Throne, below it ſtood Chairs for the Senators to ſit on, and between them and the Throne was placed on each ſide a Table, covered with Cloth of Silver, on which lay the Crown, the Sword, the Globe, the Scepter, and the Key. At the Door of the Room of Audience they were received by Count Steenbock Rycks Marſhall, and advancing within eight or ten Paces of the Throne, the Chief of the Ambaſſadors made a Speech to the King, which was anſwered by Count Oxenſterne. Then the King roſe up, and taking off his Hat, enquired of the Health of the Czars, and ſat down again, the Ambaſſadors continuing uncovered all the while. Then they preſented the Czars Letter, which the King delivered to Count Oxenſterne, and gave the Ambaſſadors leave to kiſs his hand, which having done, and deſired their Attendants might be permitted to pay their reſpects in like manner to His Majeſty, they ſat down on a Bench which was brought for that purpoſe. Their Retinue having kiſſed the Kings Hand, the Ambaſſadors roſe and acquainted His Majeſty, that the Czars had ſent His Majeſty a Preſent of Furrs, and deſired Commiſſioners might be appointed to treat with them, and then the Ambaſſadors returned to their Lodgings, in the ſame order they came; and at night were entertained with a Splendid Supper by the Kings particular direction.

Vienna, November 3. We have Letters from Hungary, which tell us, that the King of Poland has inveſted Buda and Peſt, and that the Imperial Army
